

Senior Wireless Engineer @ Apple, London, UK

Job Summary

The Senior Wireless Engineer is responsible for executing and planning internal and external certification programs. The scope of these activities can vary depending on the needs for the associated project.

Responsibilities

- Lead and support certification programs within internal and 3rd party facilities
- Producing consolidated project planning and status reporting information
- Plan and execute delivery of all testing samples and support equipment
- Plan and co-ordinate external testing schedules with security providers
- Develop and maintain test procedures and reference material
- Ensuring internal documentation and processes are maintained and up to date
- Lead the maintenance of the internal lab
- Maintain security inline with cooperate security requirements
- To undertake ad hoc tasks as may be required

Description

Technical Support to the Product Certification Team in EMEA Countries

Tracking of local Standard developments

Produce project status reporting information

Ensure internal documentation and processes are maintained and up to date

Education

EE degree, CS degree or equivalent Engineering Degree
(Electrical/Electronic/Wireless Communications/Telecommunications)

To apply

Please contact:

Dermot Dwyer,

Recruiter

ddwyer@apple.com